5.0 KEY MESSAGES

1. Every child has the right to life, education, health and the benefits of scientific progress.
2. There should be a zero tolerance for school drop-out and absenteeism.
3. Teenage mothers should be encouraged to return to school
4. The best strategy of ending Child Marriage, Sexual Violence and Abuse, Commercial Sexual Exploitation of Children and Child labour is to keep girls in school longer to achieve their economic independence through Technical Vocational and Educational Training (TVET) programmes.

6.0 DONATION

A total of 520 pieces of exercise books were donated to five (5) Rights of the Child Club (ROCC) in 5 GAA project schools in the Bekwai Municipality. 8.0 SUCCESS STORIES

- a. 3 girls have been rescued from Child Marriage in the Bogyawe and Denyase communities through the support of the Community Child Protection Committees in the mentioned communities.
- b. 5 teenage mothers in the Asanso Community in the Bekwai Municipality in the Ashanti Region have returned to school after constant engagement with Community Child Protection Committee in the Community.
- c. Community members are slowly changing and responding to the project objectives of advocating against Child Marriage, Sexual Violence and Abuse and Commercial Sexual exploitation among Children and keeping girls in school longer to achieve economic independence through Technical Vocational Educational Training for Girls and Young Women.
- d. 20 Champions of change have been identified among the project communities in the Bekwai Municipality and trained on the concept of child protection in relation to the 4 thematic areas on the GAA project. The champions have set up task forces to monitor and eliminate Child Marriage, Commercial Sexual Exploitation among Children, Child Neglect, Child Labour and Sexual Violence and Abuse in their communities and beyond.
- e. The community leaders are generally focused on pursuing bye-laws to end Child Marriage. The Community Child Protection Committee in the Ankase Community in the Bekwai Municipality in the Ashanti Region has drafted a bye-law which has been submitted to the Bekwai Municipal Assembly for ratification. The remaining communities have started dialoguing with community leaders to draft their bye-laws.
- f. There is youth participation in review meetings organized by Rights and Responsibilities Initiatives Ghana.

- g. The exceptional support provided by the Queen Mother of Bekwai to the project is encouraging women groups and leaders to take active participation in the project activities in their communities.
- h. School Based Facilitators in the project schools are becoming more assertive and conscious on child protection related issues.
- i. More communities are sending child abuse such as parental neglect, child labour, commercial sexual exploitation of girls, non-maintenance of children related issues to Duty Bearers of child protection such as the Department of Social welfare, Commission of Human rights and Administrative Justice and the Domestic Violence and Victims Support Unit of the Ghana Police Service.
- j. Community members now are promoting the rights of Children with Disability to attend school. In one community where a head teacher refused to admit an autistic child into his school the guardians contacted RRIG to lead them to lodge a complaint at the Municipal Education office. The child has since been admitted into another school, when the previous headmaster provided evidence that the school was full.
- k. Twenty (20) Champions of change are articulating the ideals of the Girls Advocacy Alliance Project beyond the project communities.
- l. The project has encouraged intergenerational discussions about girls' empowerment between the young girls and older people in their respective communities. This has deepened the respect the girls have for the guidance the older people are giving them to achieve their education, economic and social potential.
- m. The Bogyawe M/A JHS in the Bekwai Municipality recorded zero teenage pregnancy after the Basic Education Certificate Examination (BECE) in April, 2018
- n. The Ankaase Community Child Protection Committee has liaise the Ghana Police Service to eradicate drug abuse among children and youth in the community. Two boys have been arrested and kept in the police custody.
- o. Youth Advocates have started organizing focus group discussion among their peers focusing on the concept of child protection and life skills. Examples of such advocates include Morrisca Serwaa Gyamfi of Kwamang M/A JHS, Perpetual Asare of Sanfo Aduam M/A JHS, Mabel Asantewaa Ennin of Anglican JHS and Sandra Yeboah of Pepedan SDA JHS in the Bekwai Municipality in the Ashanti Region.
- p. The Youth Advocate in the Ankaase M/A JHS has taken the lead role to advocate on ending Child Marriage, Teenage Pregnancy and Commercial Sexual Exploitation among girls in the school and community.

9.0 CHALLENGES

- a. Some Community Child Protection Committee member's constant demand for incentives.
- b. During the last quarter, most of the project activities were postponed because the scheduled dates were clashing with the local community activities in some communities as well as sporting activities in some project schools in the Bekwai Municipality in the Ashanti Region.
